BUDGET BEASON BEGINS

The Bethel Budget Committee began meeting jointly with the selectmen this week to hammer out a budget to take to voters at Town Meeting in June. Selectmen in other local towns are also at work on their own annual budgets. The chart to the left shows how Bethel's municipal, county and school budgets have grown over the past live years. The figures are not adjusted for inflation, which has averaged approximately 4 percent per year over the period. Despite the budget increases, simultaneous growth in Bethel's assessment has allowed the town to maintain the same tax rate (14.75 mils) for the past four years. The SAD44 School Board will get its first look at the district's proposed FY '95 budget at the March 13 board meeting in Woodstock. Superintendent Ronald Jenkins said last week that preliminary figures on how much money SAD44 may get from the state are coming in, but nothing is final. Administrators are still unsure how Gov. King's proposed state budget will affect the local education subsidy, Jenkins said.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE-Bethot and Newry lirelighters examine a house that burned Friday morning at the corner of Route 2 and Martin Lane Road. Bethel Chief Jim Young said the fire is suspicious, because no one was living there and no electricity was hooked up. He said two inspectors from the State Fire Marshal's office were at the scene Friday afternoon, and the fire is under investigation. GIRLS CAN HANDLE WOODS WORK

To the Editor:

I'm writing in regards to Mr. Chittick's letter in last week's Citizen. First of all, I take great offense to his remark about the ability of an 18-year-old girl to sharpen an axe or a chainsaw. Hasn't he ever heard the saying, "You can do anything if you try."? Girls are just as capable as boys are of doing either of these things.

I wonder what Mr. Chittick would have said if he'd seen the NOVA Forestry Class (now known as Woodharvesting) in 1979. There were 13 boys and one girl I know this because I was that girl, I not only sharpened and operated my own chainsaw. I also drove a skidder and stacked pulp as well as any boy in that class. I wasn't treated special because I was a girl. In fact, I felt I had to work harder to prove I could do it because I am a girl.

Secondly, I really doubt that the people involved in AmeriCorp would agree to the idea that they are getting paid to "play in the

While members of the state legislature were free bussing and boarding around northern Maine counties last week, the handful left at the State House were trying to keep the home fires burning

For instance, the supplemental budget of some $2.7 million to keep the company store open until Gov. Angus King's big supply wagon arrives July I, was all but a sure thing until the senate Democrats rode guns ablaze into chambers insisting on some $400,000 to continue the Maine Health Pro-

Gov. King had turned turtle between campaign rhetoric and incumbency reality and did not include the plan in the supplemental. (Nor the FY 1996-97 budget.) The R's always wanted to kill it. The appropriations committee unanimously obliged. The D's, trying to round up some of their lost core constituency rolled a couple of R-senators and the health plan band played on.

But while the junketing legislators were enjoying the top half of Maine's hospitality including aquaculture salmon and B&B at UM-Machias, their leaders as a legislative council in meeting were pondering some real tough issues -- like joint

The JR's are sort of feel-good exercises, mostly directed at Big Daddy Washington, just to let Congress know that somewhere up there on an icy cold promontory there exists its 23rd state sibling.
Which by the way, sent to Big Daddy in 1992, federal income and employment tax collections, plus federal corporate income tax collections totaling $3,343,539,000. That's billions -- and a tad short of Mains's blanched to the state of the state

Maine's biennial budget.
And so it may feel good just to retaliate by resolution. A couple wanted to remind Congress to keep its base-closing mitts off the naval shipyard at Kit-its base-closing mitts off the naval shippard at Kittery and air station at Brunswick. That's mother's milk as far as Maine is concerned.

Another memorializing to Congress was an afterthe-fact resolution to hold the commissioning this July of the nuke missile sub "USS Maine" (SSBN741) at Kittery instead of its cradle birth at Electric Boat in Groton, Conn. Sen. Chris Dodd wasn't too happy that Navy Sceretary John Dalton switched commissioning sites to Maine. But Senators Snowe and Cohen were, (Political times are a changing.) The resolution just Dobbs it in.

Other resolutions haven't been fleshed out in final form yet, but there is one warning Congress to not abolish the merchant marine and fisheries committee -- which it already has.

Another insists that Congress designate escherichia coli 0157:147 as a reportable disease throughout the nation. Some legislators didn't know what the hell it was but didn't want to get it. They figured Washington would know.
There's a resolution to the US Postal Service to design a Joshua Chamberlain stamp. That may have to wait while the USPS gets the Marilyn Monroe stamp design unstuck. There's a mystery resolution warning Congress to "cease certain activities concerning the United Nations." These resolutions are confidential until voted yea so the best guess is that Newt Gingrich has a mole in the Maine Legislature, How about a resolution to allow all states east of the 100th meridian to regulate the export of unprocessed logs? That may need a rather helty congressional appropriation to hire a professional cartographer to divide North Dakota through Texas.

The Maine Legislature is considering memorializing Congress to require full disclosure in managed health care plans. This is definitely not a friend-of-Hillary resolution and probably the handiwork of Gingrich's mischievous mole.

Considering the reading problems that University of Maine athletic coaches have been having lately. a resolution to Congress to simplify the small print in the fees charged by National Collegiate Athletic Association might be in order. Mainers should also know how many of those classy ice Bears are Canadian and what the exchange rate is.

And finally a resolution to Congress that Mainers can take to the bank; asking Congress to approve the sale of reformulated gas in all 16 counties in Maine. Please call Rep. Paul Volenik (R-Penobscot) on that one.

Sometime this week, the legislature may get down to real business.

FRYEBURG--A member of the Maine Wolf Coalition expects the eastem timber wolf to make a natural recovery in Maine. John Glowa of South China said that wolves now live 75 miles from the Maine border in Quebec and are known to travel 500 miles or more. He noted that a wolf was shot in Maine by a hunter last year. Glowa said the return of the wolf could mean income for the state, as people come to see or hear the animal. He said the International Wolf Center in Minnesota had 100,000 visitors its first year. The coalition supports wolf recovery, but not reintroducing wolves to Maine. "We believe wolves can coexist with hunting and trapping, timber harvesting and agriculture in Maine, as they do elsewhere," Glowa said.

Town funds missing in Andover

ANDOVER-Selectman Kathy Williamson said last week that funds are missing from the town office. She said the amount was less than $1,000. "The police came and talked to everyone in the town office, and found nothing to investigate," she said. "On the advice of the auditor (Gary-Dyke) and the police, we called the insurance company, but we are not covered for lost funds. The auditor will make an adjustment."

Selectmen pinch pennies

WOODSTOCK--Selectmen are working to hold this year's budget to last year's figure of $1,142,713.46, of which $772,855.81 was raised from taxes. Selectman Percy Monk said last week he thought holding the line was necessary because the town would be getting less state and federal money. Town manager Vern Maxfield had presented to selectmen several proposals with totals raised from taxation topping $800,000. After examining the figures they came up with possible cuts to hold the municipal tax increase to $18,000, but they planned to look for further

Mailman's gift to fund scholarships

WEST PARIS--James Albert Jackson, a lifelong West Paris resident, has left $1.3 million to SAD 17. The bequest will be put in a trust fund for students from West Paris who pursue higher education. Jackson, who died two years ago at age 88, was a rural letter carrier for many years for the U.S. Postal Service. SAD 17 officials expect the trust fund to carn about $50,000 per year. Between 12 and 15 West Paris students graduate from Oxford Hills High School each year.

Slow down, more troopers on the way

GRAY--Seven new state troopers will be patrolling the roads in Oxford, Cumberland and parts of Androscoggin and Franklin counties. They recently completed 22 weeks of training at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in Waterville, Maine Public Safety Department spokesman Stephen McCausland said that this is the first addition of troopers in five years. They will be replacing troopers who have retired. The troopers have already begun their patrols. "It's a busy area of Maine out there," said McCausland.

Chipping in to save money

RUMFORD Boise Cascade Paper Mill is saving money on fuel by burning chipped tires in its boilers. Since Boise started the process last June, it has increased its use of the tires from 72 ions a week to 100 ions a day. The partial shift from coal to tires is saving the company about 10% in fuel costs. Burning the tires is also better for the environment -- less smoke and sulfur dioxide are emitted, according to company officials, who said the practice will help alleviate tire dump problems around the

Safety seat saves child

GREENE-Androscoggin County Sheriff's deputies are crediting a car seat with saving a little girl's life in an accident Saturday in Greene, Carla Madore, 48, of Augusta was killed when her car collided with James Donahue, 20, of Auburn. There were no passengers in Madore's vehicle. Donahue and a passenger in his truck were both taken to Central Maine Medical Center for treatment. Three-year-old Brianna Dehetre, who was also riding in Donahue's vehicle was treated for minor injuries and released. "If it wouldn't have been for that little girl being placed in a child safety seat, it could have been a lot worse," said deputy Guy Desjardins. "They had her buckled up really well. The device did its job."

Sun-Journal/Sunday suing sheriff

AUBURN--The Lewiston Sun-Journal/Sunday is suing Oxford County Sheriff Lloyd C. Herrick, claiming his department withheld public information from reporters. The suit alleges the sheriff's department illegally kept police blotter information from a free-lance reporter. The department provides a computer printout with some information about phone-in complaints, but the newspaper wants access to all the information before it's entered into the computer. The paper contends original data entries are public information. The paper isn't seeking any damages, only access to the information. Sheriff's office officials say reporters are free to ask about individual complaints, but that the department must protect witnesses and other involved in ongoing investigations. No date has been set for a hearing in Androscoggin County Superior Court.

Restaurant curfew repeal proposed

AUGUSTA--Rep. G. Paul Waterhouse, R-Bridgton, is sponsoring legislation to repeal a law enacted last year that forbids restaurants with lounges from serving dinner to anyone under 21 after 9 p.m. unless accompanied by an adult. The law was enacted by the 116th Legislature and "lost in the shuffle," according to Waterhouse, who said restaurant owners in his district were outraged by the law. "What this law does is require that teenagers and most college-age kids take their parents along for dinner dates," Waterhouse said. "In the summertime, when it stays light longer and schools are out, 9 o'clock comes fairly early. Frequently, an 8 o'clock seating won't finish until after 9 p.m., which would mean an abrupt end to an otherwise nice meal." Waterhouse said the original law was intended to discourage young people from hanging out in area, such as the Old Port in Portland.

isn't that much money in the savings accounts. There's not enough there to save much on interest," Curtis said.

Swan added that selectmen had saved the town several hundred dollars the past two years by changing insurance plans.

Resident Sam Chittick said selectmen could ask for help from retired people in the community.

"I spent years in the insurance business. I don't see why we have to spend more money. Make a list of what town managers do, and we'll do it," he said. Swan and Curtis questioned whether Greenwood needs a more detailed training plan for employees. The committee had said current disease control and OSHA training are not adequate.

Committee chairman Albert Curtis said he had been told by a Maine Municipal Association lawyer that if a dump attendant reached into a dumpster, got jabbed with a needle, and contracted AIDS, the town could be sued for up to $1 million, with town insurance covering only $300,000 of it.

The committee also said a town manager could better see a project through to conclusion, citing the Gordon tire facility issue as an ex- chair Wanda Lavallee. ample.

Carl Curtis disagreed.

"DEP (the Department of Environmental Protection) overode the town on a hearing on that. They won't listen to a town manager any quicker. When your state legislators can't do anything, you know a town manager can't," he said.

Dunham also questioned if townspeople's problems would be solved more quickly with a town manager,

"Most complaints people have are about valuation, and the town manager has no authority over that, They would have to go to the selectmen anyway," he said.

Dunham and Chittick pressed the committee members for more details on why the town needed a manager,

"The selectmen do a good job. I don't want to get into personalities and start naming names. That's not what this is about," Albert Curtis

Town Clerk Phyllis Coolidge said the committee was painting too rosy a picture of the town manager form of government.

You make it sound like a Camelot. I don't think a town manager is a Camelot," she said.

From the Bethel Police log:

Tire slasher strikes at Suds

On Feb. 10 at 10:10 a.m. an Andover woman reported two tires on her car had been slashed with a knife while it was parked at Sud's Pub the night before. She had left it overnight, thinking it had only a flat tire. Police discovered while investigating that two tires on an adjacent car had also been slashed.

Thursday, Feb. 9

At 9:25 a.m., A Bethel Park Apartments woman reported her son was harassing and mentally abusing her. She said she has no control over him and wanted help. Police sent a report to the juvenile intake officer.

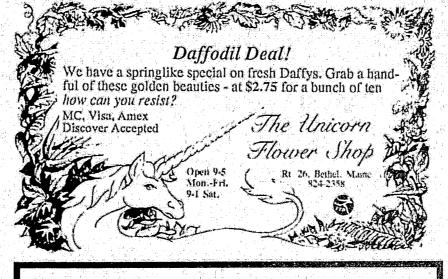

At 1 p.m., a Bethel man called to report a door kicked in at the residence on the corner of Route 2 and Martin's Lane. When police arrived there were no new tracks in the snow, but the door to the shed had been kicked open. The would-be burglars were not able to gain entry, however. (Note: the next day the same house suffered substantial damage in a fire. See photo p.2.

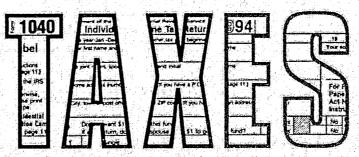

At 5:45 p.m., a Bethel man reported someone had jimmyed a locked door on his Sunday Valley Acres house and stolen a CD player, color TV, and microwave. Neighbors said they observed two males in their carly 20's with dark hair in a small red pickup truck on the road, Police planned further investigation.

Wednesday, Feb. 8

At 8:56 p.m., a Bethel woman reported a load of trash in the middle of the road on Route 5 toward Albany. Police removed three bags of trash and six five-gallon pails of sand spilled on the center line. M.D.O.T.

Strategy #7 - Save taxes by choosing the right filing status

Always review your filing status options to be sure you select the one that minimizes your taxes.

Single taxpayers, for example, often qualify for the lower head of household rates. To qualify, you must pay more than half the cost of maintaining a home for yourself and at least one dependent. Having a dependent parent, even one who doesn't live with you, may also entitle a single taxpayer to file as head of household.

Sometimes, a married couple can cut taxes by filing separately (if one has lower income but large medical deductions, for example).

A single widow or widower with a dependent child may still file a joint return for two years after the death of a spouse.

"It would be less time spent on the bus for the children (to go to Errol) and it's cheaper," said Lavallee, who declined to talk about the exact figures until Town Meeting.

The town's three-year contract with SAD44 expires at the end of the current school year. The district also contracted to transport Upton students for the 1994-95 school

"They have to decide what's best for their kids," said SAD44 superintendent Ronald Jenkins, "We'd be happy to have them. But their kindergarten, first-, second- and thirdgrade students are riding 26 miles to school. (Upton) wants to look into alternatives. You can't fault them for that."

Sending students to Errol will save Upton transportation costs, but not tuition expenses, said Jenkins, who is also Upton's state agent.

It's about 26 miles from Upton to Bethel, Jenkins said, and about 10 miles from Upton to Errol.

The state currently allows SAD44 to collect $4,638 for high school students, $3,666 for elementary students and $1,833 for kindergar-

New Hampshire tuition rates are $6,385 for high school students and $4,520 for elementary students, Jenkins said.

"We're not going to be devastated (if Upton decides to send its students to New Hampshire), Jenkins said. "But they are worth some tuition money to us.

The committee will make its recommendation at the March 23 Town Meeting. It will require a town vote to continue with SAD44 or contract with Errol, N.H.

Upton's two other School Board members are Lauri Brown and Tammy Grondin.

study the ordinances of a number of other towns, including Freeport, Bridgton, Turner and Stowe, Vt.

Among the possible topics the committee is expected to consider are internally lighted signs, sign height, number of signs per business, and whether the town should take over responsibility for MDOT

Planning Board chairman Frank Vogt said last week that he has fielded a number of phone calls and comments regarding the proliferation of signs in town.

If residents want to changes to the current ordinance, he said, it is essential that they let the members of the sign committee and the selectmen know of their feelings.

"We want to protect the business community, but also the beauty of the town," he said.

TELSTAR ACCREDITATION.

SAD 44 has been notified that Telstar High School has been removed from warning status with the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. A letter from NEASC said the action was due to the hiring of a full-time media specialist and a half-time music teacher,

The letter went on to express concern, however, over the lack of a full-time nurse for the school and asked for a report showing student needs are being met.

"But without public and private land we wouldn't be able to do it,"

Wight said. The local Jeep club, Mahoosuc Mountain Jeepers, was repeatedly cited as an example of how organized user groups can work successfully with landowners.

The jeep club is headed by Geoff Gaudreau, who Feency described as "a local person who has proven he can follow up on a handshake, and who will return later to clean the

Newton concurred. "Geoif knows what he's doing and does it right. I went up there after letting them cross my land and there wasn't a scrap of rubbish."

Because of the reputation the Incal Jeep club has developed. Chadbourne and other landowners have allowed their land to be used each spring for the innual Maine Mountains Jeep Jamboree.

But even with that cooperation, "It would be great for us if they just didn't come," Feeney said.

Corporate landowners "have become much more lenient," she said.
It is seldom now that local trail users encounter gated roads or "no trespassing" signs, and when they do it's often because the roads are vulnerable (as in the spring) or logging is in process. One local mountain biker (this reporter) expressed support for the trail initiative, but admitted to some ambivalence about what a formal trail system might bring with it.

The Bethel area already has an intricate network of woods roads, snowmobile trails and singletrack, he said, "but only if you're willing to do a little work to discover it."

As to the prospect of seeing the local trails filled with hoards of bikers from away -- it was not an appealing one, he said, especially if their behavior were to test the tolerance of landowners and jeopardize the access local users already have to the trails.

Next step

Polak said the Mahoosue Land Trust, which has been facilitating the trails effort, would continue to work to bring landowners and trail users together.

For the immediate future, he said, the focus will be on potential trail locations along the Androscoggin. But in the long run, one supporter and the seal is "to develop a bailsystem that puts people on trails the Lindowners are comfortable with."

Gould plans for summer school

The Gould Academy Summer School is preparing for its 15th summer of accelerated education.

According to summer school Director of Admissions Kimberly A. Caldwell, the six-week program provides students entering grades 9-12 the luxury of focusing their attention on one or two academic subjects while enjoying many cul-tural and recreational opportunities.

"In their major course, students cover a year's worth of material in six weeks," she said. "This program is designed as an enrichment program for motivated students."

Roger Fuller, who has worked with summer school since its inception, takes over in 1995 as the program's director. A 1993 Milken Award recipient, Fuller chairs the English department at Oak Hill High School in Sabattus during the regular academic year and co-directs Project Discovery for the Gifted and Talented.

Well, last week I said no snow, so the Windy Valleys Sno-mobile Club would not have their oyster stew supper on the 11th. Mother nature sure fooled us... It goes to show that she is still the Boss. I stayed at the Bachelders during the storm, as we didn't know if the electric power would go out. I came back home Sunday when the wind and things started to calm down. My neighbor, Bob Bartholomew, plowed my driveway so I could get to the door without trouble. We were lucky that we didn't lose the electric power. When will the next storm come? The Sno-Mobilers should be happy now. Happy Trail! Seven members of the "Newry

Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week; Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis, Sylvia Wight, Bea Lowell, and Olive Anderson. Rena Powers and Jim Anderson were guests. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on both the triples and singles. Of the "Righties," Bea was high on the triples and Eleanor was high on the singles. Betsy had one strike and one spare, Karlene had two spares, Gil had four spares, Eleanor had one spare, Sylvia had one spare, and Bea had one spare and one strike. All went to lunch and did some shop-

On Jan. 29, during the church services at the East Stoneham Congregational Church UCC. Jean Littlefield was recognized and honored as one of the new deacons, Feb. 5 was the first church services at the North Waterford Congregational Church after having much repair and renovations done there. There is still much to be done, but we can have services now and all of February. On Thursday evening, Feb. 2, there was a meeting at the parsonage with about eight people to discuss and plan for the Aug. 26 birthday party for the East Stoneham Church, which is 100 years old this year. It sounds like an exciting and interesting weekend, and any help or input on the planning would be welcomed by the committee. I hope outof-towners and out-of-staters will be able to attend these festivities, as well as the members of the com-we tasted it. What a surprise -- it was so salty it was terrible. Evidently the middle container had sprung a leak around the bottom and the salt got up into it. We weren't beaten. We brought the electric freezer in and made up a new batch. What a time we had, but it was all worth it, What a difference and how much better it is than the store-bought.

I hope you all had a happy Valentines Day and was remembered. I'm sure most of us have happy thoughts of past days.

On Tuesday, Feb. 7, there was a meeting of the Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club at the Stoneham Fire Station with president Eben Harmon presiding. There were 19 people there. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read and necepted. Discussion was had about non-members abusing the privilege of using our trails in certain places, and a letter will be sent asking them to please use more care and consideration when the trail is near a home. Also, a trail has had to be changed on account of the beavers building a dam and flooding done.

A couple of weeks ago I had the most interesting visit at the Clare-Bell Brass Works, owned and operated by Susan and Dana Gregson of Lovell. Clare-Bell specializes in making handcrafted brass miniatures and they sell wholesale all over the world. The little lamps and chandeliers that really light up are so beautiful and dainty. You have to see them to appreciate them. Dana has a bachelor's degree in Maine engineering and has operated Greeson Machine Co. for 10 years, and Susan has a bachelor's degree in soeial work. Howdy, folks. Well, we have survived the snow storm, and what a storm it morning as I attempt to type up our doings for the last week.

Peggy had an appointment with her doctor a week ago this forenoon, and he thought she was doing quite well and on the road to recovery. After her appointment she took me out to lunch at Pizza Hut in honor of my approaching birthday.

We went to Shop 'n Save for our supply of groceries on Friday morning. While there we met Gwendolyn Currier, a good friend who used to live in Bethel at the same time we for dinner. They both came, and Oxford Grange Hall next Tuesday

BUCKLE UP THOSE KIDS

Feb. 12-18 is Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week, an annual observance to increase awareness about the need for children of all ages to ride buckled up.

Here are some answers to free quently asked questions:

--Does the law go by age or by weight? The law goes entirely by age: all children must ride in child safety seats from birth to the fourth birthday. From 4 to 19 years, they must be properly secured in a safety seat or belt.

-How do I decide which seat fits my child? What seat is best for which child goes by weight and sometimes also by height, according to manufacturers' instructions, In general; infants, birth to 20 pounds, must ride rear-facing either in an infant-only seat or in a convertible seat. Do not place the seat where there is an air bag, Toddlers 20-40 pounds and less than 40 inches tall ride front-facing in a convertible seat. Children 30-60 pounds who have outgrown convertible safety seats ride in a booster seat (note weight overlap with convertible seat). Booster seats qualify as child safety seats.

--How can I tell if my seat meets federal standards? Seats that meet federal standards bear stickers saying "this device meets all anplicable federal standards for use in motor vehicles." If the sticker has worn off, the make and model of the seat can be checked with the manufacturer to make sure it is meant for use in a motor vehicle.

--How can I tell if my seat is safe? Call the Auto Safety Hotline (800-424-9393) to find out whether or not your seat has been recalled for -What if I can't afford to buy a seat? Low-cost rental seats (infant, toddler, and special needs) are available to families through 60 loaner programs around the state. Call 800-698-3624 for details.

Are there exceptions to the law? Children transported in vehicles (such as school buses) not required by the Department of Transportation to be manufactured with safety belts are not required to be in child safety seats.

law says that children 4 to 19 must be properly secured in a child safety seaf or safety belt. Only when the vehicle's lap belt stays low on the child's hips and doesn't ride up across the abdomen, and the shoulder belt doesn't cross in front of their face or neck, are children ready for adult safety beits. Until that time, they should ride in a booster seat.

More information on the law or proper use of child safety seats can be obtained by calling 624-8756.

The Task Force will sponsor a Diversity Workshop, tentatively on June 9, near the opening date of NTL. This workshop has been offered during the past two years, especially geared for retail and hospitality personnel. It continues hecause of changing personnel.

The Task Force also discussed what feedback has come in since the Coffee House was discontinued. Was this drug-free family-type recreation missed? After three sessions, it was not reopened this year. Whether it would be reopened would depend on feedback. To this time, feedback has not been sufficient to warrant reopening, but reaction and additional committee volunteers could change this.

The next Task Force meeting will be at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 12, at the home of Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr on Chapman Street.

Sunday River will host first ever U.S. telemark World Cup

Sunday River Ski Resort will host the first World Cup telemark ski race ever held in the United States on March 1 and 3. The race is part of a week-long Telemark Festival at Sunday River, which will include the U.S.

The festival will run from Tuesday, Feb. 28 through March 5, with the competition events beginning Wednesday, March 1. The largest telemark event on the continent, the festival will draw over 100 of the world's top Telemark racers, including two-time World Champion Morten Moller of Norway. Over 50 European racers are registered for the event, which is also drawing competitors from Switzerland, Sweden, Finland, Canada and the United States.

Telemark skiing is the original form of downhill skiing. The ski boot is attached to the ski only at the toe, as opposed to the toe-and-heel binding found on today's conventional alpine skis.

The week-long festival, sanctioned by both the United States Telemark Ski Association (USTSA) and the International Telemark Federation (ITF), is part of the 10th annual Eastern Telemark Series. In addition to World Cup and Citizen Class racing, there will be instructional clinics for skiers in moguls, telemark jumping, back-country skiing and racing.

The March 1 Classic Terrain Course, offering competition at both the U.S. national and World Cup levels, promises to be one of the festival's most challenging events. The Classic incorporates a giant slalom course, a nordic jump, and uphill skate and a super-G style finish.

According to Claude W. Muff, director of the Eastern Division of the USTSA, "the Classic Terrain Race is one of the biggest tests of a telemark skier. It incorporates all events, lasting anywhere from three to five

The World Cup Giant Slalom race will be held on Sunday River's T2 and Monday Mourning trails. The race will begin at 10 a.m. on March 3. The World Cup races are the last ITF races prior to the season finals at Rauland, Norway, which will be followed by the World Championships in Lillehammer.

The Professional Ski Instructors of America (PSIA) will join in at the festival. PSIA will be on hand for slope clinics, while local groups will lead back-country tours of off-piste runs.

'Black Comedy' at Gould

Under the direction of drama instructor Douglas Alford, eight Gould students will perform Peter Schaffer's Black Comedy" on Feb. 17 and 18.

"Black Comedy" revolves around several cases of mistaken identity during a dinner party hosted by Brindsley Miller (Dave Bennett '96) and his fiancee, Carol Melkett (Bonnie Crocker '96). Shortly before their guests arrive a fuse blows leaving Miller's apartment in the black. Stage lights allow the audience to see the actors groping around in "darkness" as they attempt to make the best of a terrible situation.

According to Alford, the actors' timing must be very precise in order to create the illusion of being in the dark. The players rehearse with blindfolds which helps them relate to their characters' situation. Though he calls preparing for "Black Comedy" labor intensive, Alford is pleased with the students' progress. "They're doing great," he said. "It's a lot of work, but they're up for it." Students have chosen to act in "Black Comedy" in lieu of participating in a winter sport. Filled with slapstick and wild stage movements, "Black Comedy" maintains a light spirit throughout its 85minute run. The play does contain some strong language, however, and parents with younger children may want to take that into consideration before deciding to attend.

"Black Comedy" begins at 7:30 p.m. in Bingham Auditorium and is free and open to the public.
